Your forecast is built from this chart and from every major contact the slow moving planets, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, make with it over the next 12 months. Every position and date is calculated precisely for your time and place of birth.

Your year in a sentence

This is the year your public life catches up with who you already are: Jupiter sits on your Midheaven as the year opens and keeps returning to it, Saturn steadies your voice and your work, and a cluster of eclipses in your 3rd and 9th houses asks you to rethink what you say, what you study and what you believe, while Uranus in your 7th house keeps your closest relationships honest and a little unpredictable.

The big themes

Jupiter on your Midheaven, then across your 10th house. With Scorpio rising and Mars in Virgo sitting in your 10th house, you have always been someone who works hard and prefers to be judged by results rather than noise. Jupiter crossing your Midheaven at 25° Leo (exact on 9 November 2026, 15 January 2027 and 1 July 2027) is the single most visible transit of your year. It tends to bring recognition, a bigger stage, or simply a stronger sense of what you want to be known for. Jupiter turns retrograde right on your Midheaven on 13 December, so the first pass opens a door, the winter months let you reconsider it, and the summer pass confirms it. By late September Jupiter reaches your natal Mars at 12° Virgo (24 September), which is where ambition and energy meet opportunity. The caution is that Jupiter also squares your Ascendant (4 March and 22 May) and your Sun (2 August), so overreaching, overpromising or taking on too much is the trap to watch.

Saturn in Aries: discipline for your creativity and your voice. Saturn is moving through your 5th house of romance, creativity and play, and by midsummer into your 6th house of routines and daily work. In your natal chart Saturn sits at 0° Aries in the 5th, trine your Sun and Pluto, so structure is something you handle well once you commit to it. Saturn trine your Mercury on 5 March 2027 is a quietly powerful moment for clear thinking, serious writing, contracts and considered decisions. Saturn trine your Midheaven on 13 June and 7 October gives your career a solid floor under Jupiter's expansion. This is the year to turn creative impulses into disciplined practice.

Uranus in your 7th house, opposite your Sun and Pluto. Uranus is at 4° Gemini today, directly across from your Sun and Pluto in the 1st house, and it stations direct on 8 February 2027 at 1° Gemini, exactly opposite your Sun. You carry a Venus square Uranus in your birth chart, so you already know that relationships need room to breathe. This year that theme is loud. Partnerships, business or romantic, may need renegotiation, and people may surprise you. The opportunity is freedom and honesty within closeness rather than the choice between them.

Neptune trine your Sun, on your natal Saturn. Neptune at 1° Aries is within half a degree of a trine to your Sun all year and stations direct on 12 December right on your natal Saturn. This softens your Saturn's seriousness. Imagination, compassion and a gentler relationship with your own discipline are available. Use it for creative work and spiritual reflection rather than letting things drift. Pluto, meanwhile, is working slowly through your 3rd house of communication, close to your natal Uranus, deepening how you think and speak over several years.

The year's big moments in your chart

The eclipses. The 6 February 2027 annular solar eclipse at 17° Aquarius falls in your 3rd house: a fresh start around communication, a course of study, siblings, neighbours or how you get your message out. Two weeks later, on 20 February, a penumbral lunar eclipse at 1° Virgo lights up your 10th house of career, close to the degree Jupiter and Mars have been stirring. Something about your professional direction reaches a point of clarity or release. The 18 July lunar eclipse at 25° Capricorn sits exactly on your natal Neptune in the 3rd house, which asks you to be honest with yourself about an idea, a belief or a story you have been telling. The 2 August total solar eclipse at 9° Leo in your 9th house is the year's most dramatic new beginning: travel, higher education, publishing, teaching or a change of worldview. It arrives the same day Jupiter squares your Sun, so it is big and must not be rushed. Finally the 17 August lunar eclipse at 24° Aquarius opposes your Midheaven from the 4th house side, bringing the home and career balance into sharp focus.

Mercury retrogrades. Mercury turns direct on 13 November 2026 at 5° Scorpio in your 12th house, clearing private confusion. It is retrograde from 9 February (5° Pisces, 4th house) to 3 March (20° Aquarius, 3rd house), a stretch for reviewing home matters and rewriting rather than launching. The 10 June to 4 July retrograde (6° Cancer to 27° Gemini) sits in your 8th house of shared money and intimacy: double check joint finances and read the small print. The 7 October to 28 October retrograde begins at 4° Scorpio in your 12th house and ends at 19° Libra in your 11th, a time for quiet reflection and reconnecting with old friends.

Venus. Venus turns direct on 14 November 2026 at 22° Libra in your 11th house. Friendships and group plans that stalled in the autumn start to move again.

Mars retrograde. Mars is retrograde from 10 January 2027 (10° Virgo, 10th house, close to your natal Mars) to 1 April (20° Leo, 9th house). This is a long review of how you use your energy at work. Projects may slow and frustrations surface, but it is excellent for refining strategy before the spring.

Jupiter retrograde. From 13 December 2026 (27° Leo, on your Midheaven) to 13 April 2027 (16° Leo, 9th house). The opportunity that appears in November gets tested and reconsidered before it is confirmed in July.

Saturn. Saturn turns direct on 10 December 2026 at 7° Aries in your 5th house, releasing creative and romantic matters that have felt stuck since summer. It turns retrograde again on 9 August 2027 at 27° Aries in your 6th house, which invites a review of health habits and daily routines.

Month by month

November 2026

The year opens strongly. Jupiter is exactly conjunct your Midheaven on 9 November, the same day as a New Moon at 16° Scorpio on your Ascendant in the 12th house. This is a potent pairing: an outer opportunity in your career meets an inner new beginning. Set intentions about who you want to become, not just what you want to achieve. Mercury turns direct on 13 November in your 12th house and Venus turns direct on 14 November in your 11th, so by mid month communication and social life flow more easily.

The Full Moon on 24 November at 2° Gemini falls in your 7th house, opposite your Sun and Pluto, the day after your birthday. Expect a relationship to show you something clearly. With Uranus also in your 7th house, a partner's honesty may surprise you. Listen before reacting.

December 2026

A New Moon at 16° Sagittarius on 9 December lands in your 1st house, close to your Mercury. This is your personal new year: a good time to set goals about health, appearance and how you present yourself. Saturn turns direct on 10 December in your 5th house, and Neptune turns direct on 12 December exactly on your natal Saturn. Creative projects and romantic matters that felt heavy through the autumn start to loosen, and your imagination gets room to work.

Jupiter stations retrograde on 13 December right on your Midheaven. Whatever began in November around work now enters a reflective phase. Do not read it as a setback. The Full Moon on 24 December at 2° Cancer in your 8th house brings shared finances or emotional intimacy to the surface over the holidays, a good moment to have a frank conversation about money or trust.

January 2027

The New Moon on 7 January at 17° Capricorn sits exactly on your natal Jupiter in the 2nd house of money and self worth. This is one of the best moments of the year for financial intentions: a new budget, a savings plan or a decision about what you truly value. Mars turns retrograde on 10 January at 10° Virgo in your 10th house, near your natal Mars, and will stay retrograde until April. Work may feel slower than you would like. Use it to refine rather than push.

Jupiter returns to your Midheaven on 15 January for its second pass. The Full Moon on 22 January at 2° Leo in your 9th house opposes your natal Uranus in the 3rd. A belief, plan for study or travel idea may need adjusting as new information arrives.

February 2027

This is a crowded month. The annular solar eclipse on 6 February at 17° Aquarius in your 3rd house opens a new chapter in communication, learning or local connections. On 8 February Uranus turns direct at 1° Gemini, exactly opposite your Sun and near your Pluto. Relationships and partnerships may shift suddenly. Stay flexible and avoid ultimatums. Mercury turns retrograde the next day, 9 February, at 5° Pisces in your 4th house, so home and family matters benefit from patience and double checking.

The lunar eclipse on 20 February at 1° Virgo in your 10th house, with Mars still retrograde nearby, brings a career matter to a head. You may see clearly which professional direction fits and which does not.

March 2027

Mercury turns direct on 3 March at 20° Aquarius in your 3rd house, and on 4 March Jupiter squares your Ascendant for the first time. Confidence is high, but guard against promising more than you can deliver. The balance comes on 5 March with Saturn trine your Mercury: your thinking is clear, grounded and persuasive. This is an excellent window for serious writing, negotiations or planning that you want to last.

The New Moon on 8 March at 17° Pisces lands in your 4th house of home and family, a good time for domestic fresh starts. The Full Moon on 22 March at 1° Libra in your 11th house opposes your natal Saturn in the 5th. A friendship or group commitment may need balancing against your personal creative life.

April 2027

Mars turns direct on 1 April at 20° Leo in your 9th house, releasing the brakes on work and travel plans that have been under review since January. The New Moon on 7 April at 16° Aries in your 5th house is a lovely moment for romance, creative beginnings and play. Jupiter turns direct on 13 April at 16° Leo, also in your 9th house, so the second half of the year's career story can begin to move forward.

The Full Moon on 20 April at 0° Scorpio falls exactly on your natal Venus in the 12th house. Feelings you have kept private may surface, perhaps a quiet realisation about what you need in love or what you have been giving away unnoticed. Treat yourself with care.

May 2027

The New Moon on 6 May at 15° Taurus in your 6th house, near your natal Moon, supports a reset of routines, health habits and the daily rhythms of work. Pluto turns retrograde on 8 May at 7° Aquarius in your 3rd house, deepening the slower work of changing how you think and communicate.

The Full Moon on 20 May at 29° Scorpio in your 1st house is close to your Sun. Two days later, on 22 May, Jupiter squares your Ascendant again. You are highly visible and perhaps slightly overextended. Check that your commitments match your energy, and resist the pull to say yes to everything.

June 2027

The New Moon on 4 June at 13° Gemini in your 7th house falls exactly opposite your natal Mercury. A conversation with a partner or close associate can open something genuinely new. Mercury turns retrograde on 10 June at 6° Cancer in your 8th house, so for the rest of the month be careful with shared money, loans, contracts and anything involving other people's resources.

Saturn trines your Midheaven on 13 June, now in your 6th house. This is the grounding counterpart to Jupiter: your daily work habits support your reputation. The Full Moon on 19 June at 27° Sagittarius in your 2nd house brings a money matter into the open. Review before you spend.

July 2027

Jupiter makes its third and final pass over your Midheaven on 1 July, and Mercury turns direct on 4 July at 27° Gemini in your 8th house, the same day as a New Moon at 11° Cancer in the 8th. Financial or intimate matters that were unclear in June find resolution, and the career opportunity from November is now ready to be acted on.

Neptune turns retrograde on 9 July in your 5th house. The lunar eclipse on 18 July at 25° Capricorn lands exactly on your natal Neptune in the 3rd house. This is a moment to be honest about an illusion, whether an idea you have idealised or a story you have told others. Jupiter sextile your Venus on 28 July is a warmer note: generosity, affection and pleasure in friendships or romance.

August 2027

The total solar eclipse on 2 August at 9° Leo falls in your 9th house of travel, study and beliefs, and on the same day Jupiter squares your Sun. This is the most powerful new beginning of your year, likely connected to education, publishing, a journey or a change of outlook. The energy is big and optimistic, so ground it: good ideas need a realistic plan. Saturn turns retrograde on 9 August at 27° Aries in your 6th house, which suggests reviewing workload and health routines before you add more.

The lunar eclipse on 17 August at 24° Aquarius in your 3rd house opposes your Midheaven. Home and family needs ask for attention after a career heavy stretch. Where you live and where you work need to be in balance, and this eclipse makes that plain.

September 2027

A rich month for work. The New Moon on 31 August at 8° Virgo in your 10th house sets the tone. Jupiter trines your Moon on 16 September, bringing emotional ease and support from routines and colleagues, and the Full Moon the same day at 22° Pisces in your 4th house suggests a satisfying resolution at home. Uranus turns retrograde on 15 September at 9° Gemini in your 7th, inviting reflection on what has shifted in partnerships this year.

Jupiter conjunct your natal Mars on 24 September is the year's peak for drive and achievement in your 10th house. Then on 27 September Jupiter squares your Mercury: enthusiasm can outrun accuracy, so check facts and tone before you send or sign. The New Moon on 30 September at 6° Libra in your 11th house, near your natal North Node, is a hopeful moment for friendships and shared goals.

October 2027

Saturn trines your Midheaven again on 7 October, the same day Mercury turns retrograde at 4° Scorpio in your 12th house. The message is to consolidate what you have built this year rather than start something new. The Full Moon on 15 October at 21° Aries in your 5th house brings a creative or romantic matter to fullness, and Pluto turns direct on 18 October in your 3rd house.

Jupiter sextiles your Ascendant on 26 October, a warm, confident note to close the year on, and Mercury turns direct on 28 October in your 11th house. The New Moon on 29 October at 5° Scorpio in your 12th house, close to where the year began, is the right time to rest, reflect on everything that has shifted, and prepare for the next chapter.

Making the most of your year

Write your career intention down in November and revisit it in July. Jupiter crosses your Midheaven three times. The first pass shows you the door, the retrograde lets you test whether you really want it, and the July pass is when to walk through. Keep a note of what you hoped for on 9 November and read it again on 1 July.

Let Saturn do the structural work. The trine to your Mercury on 5 March and the trines to your Midheaven in June and October are your best moments for anything that needs to last: a serious proposal, a course of study, a long term plan. Schedule the important, patient tasks around these dates.

Treat relationships as a conversation, not a contract. With Uranus in your 7th house opposite your Sun all year, the people closest to you will need honesty and space. Your Venus square Uranus already understands this. When something shifts suddenly, especially around 8 February and the Full Moon of 24 November, ask what freedom the other person needs before deciding what it means.

Use the eclipses to edit, not to rush. Three of the five eclipses land in your 3rd house, and the biggest one falls in your 9th alongside Jupiter square your Sun. These are moments to reconsider what you say, what you learn and what you believe. Give yourself a few weeks after each one before making anything final, and you will find the clarity arrives on its own.
